Irene still poses a threat to Canada

Hurricane Irene was downgraded to a tropical storm yesterday, but forecasters warned the massive storm will still have the potential to cause flooding and wind damage by the time it reaches Eastern Canada. More than 100 flights at Toronto's Pearson International Airport have been cancelled because of the storm, including flights departing to and arriving from New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Boston. For more on the storm, see page 8.

Condo act needs a reno: NDP

- Latest changes came in 1998, MPP says
- Don't reflect conditions since building boom

Tom Smeraldo and Emilio Ojeda walked into their new Cabbagetown-area condo, took one look at their view (a brick wall), balcony (more of a ledge), and hardwood floors (actually laminate) and phoned their lawyer.

"We were so disappointed. We just wanted out of the deal," said Smeraldo.

They couldn't. Not unless they wanted to lose the tens of thousands in deposits. Instead, the couple set out on a three-year battle with the builder over what they say are broken promises and unfixed deficiencies.

Theirs is a buyer beware cautionary tale.

As of December, there were about 264,000 condo units in the region. Despite the considerable size and affluence associated with the demographic, it's a vulnerable segment of the population, says NDP MPP Rosario Marchese. The NDP has vowed to tackle condominium act reform if elected this fall.

"If a renter has a problem with the owner of that building they're able to go to renter's tribunal, pay a $25 fee and defend themselves. If you've got a problem as a condo owner, where do you go? A lawyer. That's the problem."

Group bares all in protest

The Go Topless march was held after the group was denied a permit to be topless on Ashbridges Beach

Pop-eyed pubescent boys on skateboards, families out on strolls and people lunching on patios on Queen Street East near Woodbine all got an unexpected eyeful yesterday afternoon as dozens of men in bras and red bikini tops and bare-breasted women of all ages, shapes and sizes marched by just after noon.

Flanked by Toronto police on bikes and led by a car pulling a U-Haul trailer and poster proclaiming "Equal Topless Rights for All or None," the group danced, sang and jiggled their way up Woodbine Avenue from Lake Shore Blvd. E., east on Queen Street and south on Lee Avenue, ending in an area bordering on Kew Gardens — but never stepping foot in the public park.

Had they done so, the bare-breasted women could have been ticketed and fined.

What aspect of the Code the event violated was not divulged last week by the city's customer care manager Mark Lawson when he spoke to the Star.

"It's ridiculous," said Diane Brisebois, one of the co-ordinators of the event, pointing out the women can legally walk along Toronto city streets topless but can't put a foot on park grass.

NDP vow to carry on Layton's vision

A purported frontrunner in the impending NDP leadership race says he believes the momentum that propelled the party to unprecedented success in May will not be broken by Jack Layton's death.

Party president Brian Topp, who admits he's considering a leadership run to succeed Layton, says voters have recognized there is a clear and viable alternative to the status quo.

"No one will replace Jack. But we can continue his work."
NDP PRESIDENT BRIAN TOPP

Layton died from cancer last Monday. The attention paid to tributes to his politics and legacy will have lasting impact, Topp said, "because what happened this week was a wonderful look at something new in Canadian politics that more and more Canadians want."

Topp and Layton's wife, MP Olivia Chow, were among those who helped the dying leader pen a final goodbye to Canadians two days before he died.

In it, Layton recommended the party hold a leadership vote as early as possible in the New Year.

With an emotional week behind them, the party's national director, Brad Lavigne, suggested that work starts first thing Monday, as the staff of the Opposition Leader's Office move into new digs under interim leader Nycole Turmel.

Working on plan bee

What's happening to Canada's honey bees? Crucial to our survival, these incredible insects help pollinate the majority of the world's food crops Photographer Geoff Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of those trying to help

"The term CCD (colony collapse disorder) was first coined in the later part of 2006 when there was a huge rise in the number of honey bees that began disappearing from their hives in North America and Europe," says photographer Geoff Fitzgerald.

"The main reason is still unknown; however there are many proposed causes like malnutrition, pathogens, mites, fungus and pesticides. Many scientists believe this phenomenon is caused by a combination of these factors; it is still hard to say."

Living in downtown Toronto, Fitzgerald never thought beekeeping in the city was possible. That was until he heard about the hives on the roof of the Fairmont Royal York Hotel.

Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of the Royal York, along with those by the Canadian Opera Company at the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts and University of Toronto campuses.

Fitzgerald hopes to expand the series to include Fairmont hotels in Vancouver, Quebec and Calgary.

He also wants to photograph hives at Vancouver's city hall and the convention centre.

"I wanted to shoot these photographs as environmental portraits, not just close-ups of bees but to really show the urban environment, rooftop location and its surroundings."

Irene punch not as packed in N.Y.

At least 15 people died in the chaos Storm knocked out power to 4.5 million on Eastern Seaboard

Stripped of hurricane rank, Tropical Storm Irene spent the last of its fury yesterday, leaving treacherous flooding and millions without power — but an unfazed New York and relief that it was nothing like the nightmare authorities feared.

The East Coast surveyed the damage, up to $7 billion US by one private estimate, and worried of danger still lurking: The possibility of rivers and streams swelling with rainwater and overflowing in coming days.

The nation's most populous region began the arduous process of getting back to normal. New York lifted its evacuation order for 370,000 people and said it hoped to have its subway rolling again today. Philadelphia restarted its trains and buses.

The centre of Irene passed over Central Park with the storm packing 105-kilometre per hour winds. By evening, it brushed over New England and moved east at 80 kilometres per hour. It was expected to drift into Canada later yesterday or early today. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washed away

- 20 homes on Long Island Sound in Connecticut were destroyed by churning surf.
- 236 kilometres of New York's main highway were washed out.

International Organization for Migration holds second ferry trip

Around a thousand Egyptians, Jordanians and Filipinos were boarding a passenger ferry yesterday to escape continuing instability and shortages in the battered Libyan capital.

A week after rebels swept into Tripoli and toppled the regime of Moammar Gadhafi, the city is more secure, but remains wracked by shortages and instability. Even as these leave, thousands more, many from sub-Saharan Africa, remain stranded and are occasionally subject to abuse by rebel forces.

Confusion reigns over TFSA rules

$5,000 a year can be saved in tax-free accounts

Contribution rules for a popular tax shelter continue to perplex ordinary Canadians, despite a year-long information blitz by the Canada Revenue Agency and the big banks.

The agency sent out almost 103,000 letters to holders of tax-free savings accounts this month warning they likely over-contributed in 2010 — and now must pay additional tax.

The tax shelter "is still a relatively new program and, naturally, some misunderstandings might still exist regarding the rules and may have led to inadvertent over-contributions," said spokesman Noel Carisse.

Account holders can put back the amounts they withdraw from a TFSA only in a later calendar year.

If they do so in the same year, they face a tax hit for their "over-contribution," even though they're only replacing the withdrawn funds.

Millions of tax-free savings accounts were set up after they came into effect on Jan. 1, 2009.

Of the 6.7 million Canadians with tax-free savings accounts, fewer than 1.5 per cent fell afoul of the rules this year.

You don't always get what you pay for, especially when it comes to insurance

Are You Paying Too Much?

The motto "you get what you pay for" used to be true of most things, but the times, they are changin', and this is no longer true for many things, most notably car insurance. In fact, you could be paying hundreds, or even thousands of dollars more than you should for your coverage.

How is this possible? It is somewhat complicated to explain, but, to sum it up: Insurance companies base their rates on their experience with similar driver profiles and cars. Since no two companies' experiences are exactly the same, it is rare that different companies will give you the same potential insurance premium for your profile and car.

Experience Counts

It has been statistically proven that drivers over 50 years of age have fewer accidents and tickets than the average, and this means that there are more potential savings to be found for more experienced drivers. In fact, some companies actually specialize in serving the mature market, so it's definitely worth comparing rates.

Loyalty May Not Pay

If you are getting a loyalty discount you might be thinking that you are better off staying with your current insurance provider. This might be true, but it's impossible to be certain without doing some research. You just might find that the potential savings far outweigh any loyalty discount being offered.

If it's a pair of black loafers you want, look elsewhere.

At Jitterbug Boy, footwear is an art form. The studio's expansive workshop takes up the better part of the fourth floor of a charmingly rundown building near The Junction. More than 3,000 pairs of shoes lasts dangle from the ceiling, and the walls are lined with an eclectic collection of mismatched footwear: A flamboyant pair of size 13 platform boots sit next to a dusty set of black "orc" shoes with large crooked nails protruding menacingly from toes.

"These are a favourite," says Jeff Churchill, picking up the aforementioned huge platform boots. "They're from Priscilla: Queen Of The Desert. It was a real challenge creating something this high that a 6 foot 4, 200-pound man could dance and perform in 10 times a week."

It's just one of the many daily challenges that Churchill and his six-person team must face as Canada's most esteemed theatrical shoe makers. Churchill learning the craft at Stratford, with Cirque du Soliel, and while working with famed director Franco Dragone in Belgium. He's been in the business for 13 years, and started his Jitterbug Boy studio in 2005, where he creates shoes for theatre, film and television productions around the world.

"We construct every part of the shoe, from the soles to the platforms to the finishing," says Churchill. He describes the various projects his assistants are working on as we stroll past otherworldly shoes and boots in various stages of completion.

"Jenna is working on House of Dancing Water," says Churchill, referring to extravagant Italian-Belgian director Franco Dragone's new underwater production. Churchill explains that they had to find a material that wouldn't degrade in water. He shows me a black thigh-high boot that looks like leather, but feels oddly plastic to the touch.

"We are always balancing between the aesthetic and the technical. Finding the mix is a challenge."

And finding that mix takes time and money. A simple shoe takes 15 to 18 hours to construct, and that doesn't include consultations with the costume designer and performer, or the time to actually design the shoe. More complicated designs can take upwards of 35 to 40 hours.

A standard shoe usually costs between $500 and $900, but Churchill says he's charged as much as $3,000 for a single set of footwear.

As one of the best in the business, Churchill gets requests to make shoes for non-theatrical purposes, but generally turns them down.

"I'm making shoes for artists: I'd rather do that than make shoes for a corporate lawyer. It's one-on-one fashion, and that's really rewarding."

New school of freedom

ATHENS, GA. As college students return to campus in Georgia, a new state policy has closed the doors of the five most competitive state schools to illegal immigrants, but a group of professors has found a way to offer those students a taste of what they've been denied.

The five University of Georgia professors have started a program they're calling Freedom University. They're offering to teach a rigorous seminar course once a week meant to mirror courses taught at the most competitive schools and aimed at students who have graduated from high school but can't go to one of those top schools because of the new policy or because of cuts to state scholarship programs.

"What we're hoping is that people in decision-making positions will reconsider the policy," said Reinaldo Roman, one of the organizing professors. "It goes counter to our aims. We have invested enormous resources in these young people." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Not too posh to push around a cop in Mexico

An odd instance of police abuse in which two snobby women shoved, slapped and insulted a cop has captured Mexico's attention and sparked debate on police tactics, gender and class issues.

Tapes of the late-night confrontation on Aug. 20 in the upscale Mexico City neighbourhood of Polanco became a hit on social networking and video-sharing sites, exposing Mexicans' frustration with both the arrogant rich and ineffectual police.

Pulled over in a traffic stop, the two women shout, swear, shove and slap a policeman, who does nothing to resist. He tries to calm them, moves away several times and eventually allows them to drive away.

One of the women, a former Puebla state beauty queen identified as Maria Vanessa Polo Cajica, can be heard on the video waving her hand in front of the officer's face, insulting his mother and calling him a "crappy wage slave."

Police chief Manuel Mondragon said the officers were waiting for a backup unit of female officers to detain the pair, because male cops only physically detain women if someone's safety is at risk. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hosting battles resume

Wrestlers, social butterflies and a straight-laced couple sharpen their knives and wits as the second season of Dinner Party Wars begins

HANNAH ZITNER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

In a suburban kitchen on the outer edge of Toronto, half-cooked steak, mystery fish eggs and a whole lot of vodka set the scene for an "interesting" Russian-style dinner party.

Known more for their ability to throw a wild soirée than master a dinner party, hosts Erina Karamani and Elena Morozovathe focus their hosting energy on the entertainment portion of the evening: vodka shots, a martini demonstration and raunchy question period.

On the set of the reality show Dinner Party Wars, where teams take turns trying to one-up each others culinary prowess, hosting grace and entertainment abilities, the 24-year old hosts are delivered bad news moments before their guests arrive.

"That's not caviar," celebrity chef Corbin Tomaszeski tells the 24-year-old hosts. "That's roe."

Starring blankly at each other, the two blonds dressed in animal prints have to think quickly to come up with a plan B.

"Maybe it's their strategy to appear like dumb blonds who don't know what they're doing," says fellow contestant Greg Danakas. "But I'm sure they're not (dumb blonds) and they will really surprise us. But at least it will be interesting when they hit the kitchen."

Having grown up in the stock room of his parents' restaurant, Danakas says he and his wife Helen make a perfect hosting team.

"I do the cooking and he does the entertaining," she says adding his career as a high school drama teacher is evidence he's not one to shy away from centre stage.

"I'm pretty sure we can win this thing... After all, how can you beat Greek hospitality?"

What happens when you throw two wrestlers, a conservative couple and a life-of-the-party duo into a ring with a bottle of tequila? The season premier of Dinner Party Wars airs Wednesday at 10 p.m. ET/PT on Food Network Canada.

Party tips

- Chef Corbin
  Preparation, preparation, preparation. The number one reason people fail at dinner parties, says Corbin, is because they don't think ahead. "They fly by the seat of their pants and more often than not, are caught with them down."
- Cook what you know, know what you cook. "Too often we have people who want to play chef and cook things far too complicated," says Corbin. Usually, the show-off chef fails. Keeping things simple is the key to success.
- Taste test. Serving before tasting is a common mistake, says Corbin. "Cooking from a recipe can be very clinical, so you need to be tasting and touching — you'll have a much better outcome."
- Anthea Turner, etiquette guru
  Get it done. Finishing chores well in advance leaves more time for the hosts to entertain. "Set the table the night before and get your clothes ready," says Turner, who confesses she sometimes lays plates and cutlery two nights before a shindig.
- Clean it! "Many times there's a toothbrush, bleach bottle or remnants of kid's potty in the washroom. I don't want to see any of that," says Turner. Paying attention to the small details goes a long way: Fresh soap, a clean hand towel and extra toilet roll are musts when hosting.

Smart fit for royal role

Jean Smart plays Camilla Parker Bowles in new TV movie
Former Designing Women star in her prime

DAN STEINBERG, THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Actress Jean Smart says she has hit her prime in her work.

Designing Women creator Linda Bloodworth-Thomason once wrote that actress Jean Smart's character on the 1980s sitcom had "legs that stretched out for five or six miles, and one of those laughs that made you feel like riding around in a convertible."

Some 25 years later, Smart's girl-next-door looks, legs and laugh are intact, making her casting of Prince Charles's matronly second wife, Camilla Parker Bowles, all the more surprising — except to Smart herself.

"The thing is, I started out in the theatre, so I always did all kinds of parts — all different ages, all kinds of parts," Smart explained recently, while promoting the TV movie William & Catherine: A Royal Romance, which debuts Saturday night (9 p.m. EDT) on the Hallmark Channel. "And, actually, Camilla was adorable when they were younger."

Smart said she hopes the movie, which follows William and Catherine from introduction to proposal, sheds a new, positive light on Bowles, "the true love of Charles's life," as per Smart. Bowles was widely maligned by the public and press — especially in the wake of Princess Diana's untimely death in 1997.

"Yes, there are a couple of moments where she has a nice, self-deprecating sense of humour about herself and the fact it's taken a gaggle of stylists to kind of put her together and everything, it's kind of nice," Smart said. "I really liked the way she was portrayed in the script. She's a very sympathetic, likeable character, and I thought she ... deserved that."

The Seattle-born Smart will likely always be best known as Charlene Olivia Frazier Stillfield, the naive but huge-hearted office manager at Atlanta's Sugarbaker design firm, on the first five seasons (1986-91) of the sitcom Designing Women.

"Oh, yeah, it was a great job," Smart recalled. "And we had a blast."

Since leaving Designing Women, Smart has actually enjoyed numerous TV-career highs: two Emmy Awards for guest appearances on Frasier (2000, 2001), a key role on the drama 24 in 2006, the year it won the Emmy for drama series, and another of her own Emmys for playing Christina Applegate's self-centred mother in the sitcom Samantha Who? (2008).

On the horizon for Smart: possibly another play, and a small role in a Meryl Streep film.

"I never was an ingenue," Smart said.

"So thank God. If I was, I mean, I can't imagine how depressing that would be right around now. So, in many ways I do feel as if in the last several years I've sort of been in my prime in terms of work and things."

Bad boy of The Borgias

Colm Feore brings his knack for the melodramatic to the role of Cardinal della Rovere in The Borgias Season one hits DVD tomorrow

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

HANDOUT

Actor Colm Feore is used to melodramatic roles that require layers of costuming.

For beloved U.S. born, Canada-based actor Colm Feore, flying out to Budapest to don the holy robes of real-life religious figure Cardinal della Rovere in the second season of Neil Jordan's hit cable series The Borgias is just business as usual, though it's a glorious business indeed.

Feore — one of our most respected and admired performers — is used to essaying melodramatic roles that require layers of costuming, from his turns in Shakespeare on the Stratford stage to his roles as heavily made-up heavies in blockbusters like Chronicles of Riddick and Thor.

But with The Borgias, there's an extra dimension to the dark drama and intrigue: sex.

"I think Neil got all the exposition and set up out of the way in the first season," admits the actor.

"Now we can focus on the juicy stuff, the killing ... and of course the screwing."

The Borgias charts the steeped-in-fact saga of the controversial, near mythical Renaissance Italian family, led by Rodrigo Borgia (Jeremy Irons) who, after he becomes Pope Alexandre VI, leads his brood into all manner of power mad, political and yes, lethal and lurid, misadventures.

"I'm the Bin Laden of the piece, if you will, and it's all great fun."
ACTOR COLM FEORE ON PLAYING CARDINAL DELLA ROVERE

For those not caught up to speed on the series (which airs on both Bravo! and CTV), the complete, uncut season one hits DVD tomorrow, the perfect primer for the even more visceral second go around, which is scheduled to air later this year.

"The family keep trying to kill me in this season," Feore says of his character, the chief adversary of Pope Alexandre/Rodrigo Borgia.

"So I'm trying to stay out of trouble but also trying to get rid of Borgia. I've tried to bring in the French army and other forces but he's bought 'em all off, he owns the place, so I have to resort to more extreme measures. I'm the Bin Laden of the piece, if you will, and it's all great fun."

Rumour has it that Minka Kelly may already be rebounding with her new costar

▶ Back when the two were tight: Minka Kelly and Derek Jeter

News of Derek Jeter and Minka Kelly's breakup has just started circulating, but has the actress already moved on?

Kelly has reportedly been getting close to her Charlie's Angels co-star, Ramon Rodriguez, according to People magazine.

"We have seen Kelly and Ramon talking in his trailer way after hours, and often late into the night," a source close to the show says. "They have been together long after they need to be for the show."

But another source insists there's nothing go on: "They're just friends. Ramon is basically the only guy on set so of course they all hang out with him."

Jen and Justin are shackin' up

Things are certainly getting serious for Jennifer Aniston and Justin Theroux, who are reportedly now living together in a rented house in the Hollywood Hills, according to People magazine.

"They decided to rent a house together while they keep searching for the perfect one to buy," a source says.

"Jen and Justin are very excited about living together in their new home."

That new home, a two-bedroom house, reportedly has hardwood floors, a pool, a spa, a deck and French doors leading out to the yard.

The couple have been staying there since August 1.

▶ Reversible bucket hats are just one of the many projects in Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew by Liesl Gibson.

Last-minute summer projects

Making clothes with your kids' input is a great way to bond Try bucket hats as a start

Making a bucket hat probably isn't on anyone's bucket list, but maybe it should be.

The reversible bucket hat in the book Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew (STC Craft, 2011) is classic, cute and comfortable. And author Liesl Gibson maintains that making it is a treat for grown-ups as well as the young recipients.

Sewing, for Gibson, is "almost a luxury." It "buys you some time to do something creative with your hands. When many of us work on computers and aren't doing much with our hands, there's a satisfaction in creating."

Gibson, a former clothing designer, began designing patterns for children's clothing several years ago, for her young daughter.

STC CRAFT/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When others started asking for her patterns, she launched her Oliver + S line of patterns, and followed up with the book. It includes new takes on classic items such as a messenger bag, art smock and tutu. Gibson designed an "explorer vest" with lots of pockets after watching her daughter and friends gather stones, twigs and other little treasures.

Gibson said she's been encouraged to see many women learning to sew when they become mothers. But she also believes her patterns and projects have a broader appeal, to anyone interested in sewing for children because it doesn't take much fabric and doesn't involve the fussy fitting issues that make sewing adult clothes difficult.

"I think the big surprise for me was that it wasn't such a small audience," she said.

While children likely would find some of the toy projects more appealing, the classic clothing and accessory designs lend themselves to experimenting with a variety of fabrics. The bucket hat, for example, can be customized by using a patterned fabric featuring a particular child's interests.

And a child who might otherwise balk at wearing a hat might embrace one that he or she had a hand in.

As with many of the book's projects, Gibson designed the hat with her daughter in mind. But it works just as well for boys.

The hat is reversible, so you can choose two favourite fabrics, or you could put a pocket on the outside.

It is rated "two scissors" because it requires sewing curved seams and topstitching, but no one step is complicated.

"It's small enough that you can make a bunch," Gibson said.

To download the bucket hat pattern and directions go to http://bit.ly/nACy4S. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Difficulty

Each project in the book is rated by difficulty using a one-four "scissor" system.

- One pair of scissors Projects marked this way are suitable for beginners.
- Four pairs of scissors These projects are for advanced sewers.

Sewing isn't your thing? Impress the kids by carving a boat out of a watermelon instead

As summer winds down and the kids are complaining they have nothing to do, here is the solution. Create a sailboat out of a watermelon.

Steps:

1. Wash watermelon; place it on its side and cut 5 mm (1/4 inch) to 1 cm (1/2 inch) off bottom with chef's knife. Use dry erase marker to draw a cut line for top of boat and a trim line on watermelon rind. Remove top of watermelon by following the cut line.
2. Use paring knife to cut around a square piece of flesh to leave as the boat's transom (surface that forms the stern or back of the boat).
3. Scoop melon balls out of rest of watermelon flesh.
4. Using a piece of rind that has been removed, carve ship's wheel.
5. Cut flesh into wave shapes.

You'll need

- 1 oblong watermelon (at room temperature)
- Honeydew and cantaloupe balls
- Swedish fish candies, for garnish
- Tools/Decoration: Pair utility gloves, chef's knife, green dry erase marker, paring knife, melon baller, rubber bands, toothpicks, 1 wooden skewer, triangle-shaped piece of paper

6. Assemble by filling watermelon sailboat rind with watermelon, honeydew and cantaloupe balls. Put skewer into transom flesh; attach sail using rubber bands to secure. Attach ship's wheel.
7. Use toothpicks to attach fish candies to waves that surround the carving. Place waves and on platter under watermelon or on table, surrounding sailboat. Let the kids help themselves to the melon balls and other goodies in the sailboat. THE CANADIAN PRESS/WATERMELON.ORG

Pizza gets global treatment

- Incorporate an Indian staple into pizza by using naan bread as a base
- Travel to the Mediterranean with ingredients like olives & feta cheese

BOTH PHOTOS: THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

▶ Veggie pizzas on naan bread can be cooked on the grill.

These vegetarian grilled naan bread pizzas have a delicious twist. Walnuts, Parmesan cheese and sun-dried tomatoes serve as a base for a topping of fresh vegetables. The pizzas make a great appetizer served on a rustic cutting board for six to eight people.

Naan Bread Pizza

Preparation:

1. Combine walnuts, Parmesan and sun-dried tomatoes with a hand blender or food processor until a paste forms. Divide evenly between flatbreads and top with vegetables and cheese.
2. Preheat one side of barbecue on high and place pizzas on cooler side of grill. Close lid and bake for 7 to 10 minutes or until vegetables are cooked and cheese has melted.
3. Oven Method: Preheat oven to 200 C (400 F) and place pizzas directly on centre rack. Bake for 7 minutes. Broil on high for 2 minutes to brown vegetables, if desired.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ CALIFORNIA WALNUTS

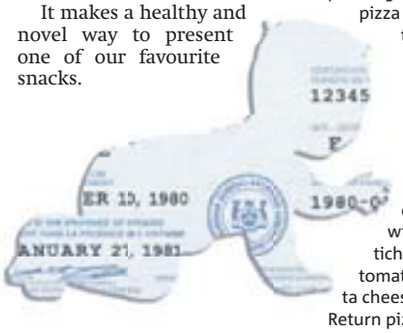
Ingredients:

- 125 ml (1/2 cup) walnuts
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) grated Parmesan cheese
- 7 sun-dried tomatoes
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) water
- 2 naan flatbreads
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) thinly sliced zucchini
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) thinly sliced onion, caramelized
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) sliced mushrooms
- 8 cherry tomatoes, sliced
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) canned artichokes, sliced
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) grated low-fat mozzarella

Mediterranean Pizza

Here is a different slant on making pizza at home. This variation uses a Greek yogurt dip in place of tomato sauce, then topped with Mediterranean ingredients.

It makes a healthy and novel way to present one of our favourite snacks.



Preparation:

1. Preheat the oven to 200 C (400 F). Generously mist a pizza pan with your chocie of non-stick vegetable oil spray.
2. Bake the pizza crust for 8 to 12 minutes or until it is golden brown. (Baking times may vary depending upon type of pizza crust and the type of oven.)
3. Spread the spinach-artichoke Greek yogurt dip over the hot crust. Top it with spinach, artichokes, tomatoes, olives, feta cheese and pepper. Return pizza to oven for 5 to 7 minutes. Cut and serve.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ MARZETTI OTRIA GREEK YOGURT VEGGIE DIP

Ingredients:

- 1 prepared pizza crust or homemade pizza crust (25 to 30 cm/10 to 12 inches in diameter)
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) spinach-artichoke Greek yogurt dip
- 250 ml (1 cup) packed baby spinach leaves
- 250 ml (1 cup) canned artichoke hearts, cut into slivers
- 250 ml (1 cup) halved cherry tomatoes
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) pitted and halved kalamata olives
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) crumbled feta cheese
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) ground black pepper

MAKE YOUR H.E. WASHING MACHINE EVEN GREENER

I found your green cleaning recipes online and I wonder what you mean by 'soap granules' used in the liquid laundry soap recipe. Would this alternative be safe to use in high efficiency (H.E.) front load machines? Marie, Guelph, Ont.

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA

Welcome to the rid-your-home-of-toxic-chemicals-and-petroleum-based-ingredients club!

Tested by yours truly, my homemade green cleaning recipes are versatile, affordable and eco-friendly.

Soap granules or flakes are just that: bits of soap that cut grease and lift dirt.

Look for brands that are biodegradable, petroleum-free, without added fragrance or perfumes, and not tested on animals.

If you can't find soap granules in the laundry aisle of your grocery store, try a local health food store or search online. You can also make your own — grate a bar of soap or use those leftover soap slivers.

Still stumped? I've added another DIY recipe using liquid castile soap, which is made of plant oils like coconut, olive and hemp.

Look for liquid castile soap in the laundry or personal care products aisles of your grocery or local health food store, or purchase online.

All of my laundry soap recipes work in cold water and in H.E. machines.

Since water hardness varies across the country, it's best to test them yourself and see the amount you'll need to add per load.

H.E. machines use less water, so the general rule is that you can use less soap!

Valedictorian Jemy Joseph says she owes much to her teachers who pushed her to put her best foot forward

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

"Teachers are angels disguised as humans".

Jemy Joseph looked out from the podium to her graduating class at Francis Libermann School.

How far she had come since arriving at the age of 14 from India feeling scared and confused about life in a strange new country.

"I was verbally abused and bullied by other students."

▶ Jemy Joseph

It was her Canadian teachers that provided the turning point for Jemy in her early years in Canada.

"They dragged me into extracurricular activities. I joined the band and became the editor of the yearbook."

Under the gentle guidance and leadership of her teachers, Jemy graduated with top honours and is now pursuing a Master's degree in Cardiovascular Sciences at the University of Ottawa.

"I will be a doctor and I'd like to focus on public health, preventative medicine and health policy."

We are now on the threshold of a new school year and this is Jemy Joseph's love letter to all the teachers who helped her and scores of young people fit in, learn and succeed:

To all of our teachers in life, we say thank you.

The facts:

A quick lesson on our country's teachers.

- Number of teachers in Canada: 332,974
- A recent study found that more than 80 per cent of teachers say their greatest satisfaction is: "Making a difference in children's lives" and "Helping develop and motivate children".
- Eight in 10 teachers said they would still become a teacher if they had to do it all again.

Rays roll over Blue Jays

Price strikes out 14, Jennings homers twice as Tampa threatens to sweep four-game series

RAYS	BLUE JAYS
12	0

The wind was blowing in David Price's face all day, and the left-hander was blowing the ball past the Blue Jays.

Price struck out a club-record 14 and Desmond Jennings had the first two-homer game of his career as the Tampa Bay Rays hammered the Toronto Blue Jays 12-0 yesterday.

Price said facing stiff winds made his two-seam fastball move more than it ever has.

"That wind blowing in my face did a lot for my two-seamer," said Price, who is 9-1 in his career against the Blue Jays. "So I was having a lot of fun to be able to throw like that."

Price (12-11) held the Blue Jays to three hits and two walks in seven innings.

The Rays (73-59) had a total of 18 strikeouts for the game, also a franchise record, as they have won the first three of the four-game series against the Blue Jays (66-67), who have lost four consecutive games to match a season high.

Blue Jays manager John Farrell missed his third game in a row as he rests at home after being diagnosed with pneumonia late Thursday.

Silver lining

Despite dropping three straight to a division rival and falling below .500, the news wasn't all bad for the Blue Jays.

- Catcher J.P. Arencibia threw out three Rays who were trying to steal bases on Saturday, drawing praise from coach Don Wakamatsu.
- "I think he's improving every day," said Wakamatsu, a former catcher who has been working with Arencibia on his technique behind the plate.
- "For me the biggest thing is my defence," said Arencibia after the game. "I want to be a guy who's known as a great defender. My hitting is always going to be there, I feel like. ... For me, my emphasis is on my defence and trying to help the team win however I can."
- Brett Lawrie continued to produce at the plate, hitting his fifth homer on Friday, adding a triple on Saturday and picking up two of the Jays' five hits yesterday.

Lincicome weathers the storm in Quebec

American overcomes poor conditions to win Canadian Women's Open

Brittany Lincicome put a new spin on the old show tune Singing In the Rain as she gritted her way through a storm to victory in the $2.2-million CN Canadian Women's Open.

The 25-year-old American made a dramatic par save in a driving rain to close with a 2-under 70 and edge defending champion Michelle Wie and Stacy Lewis by one stroke at Hillsdale Golf Club yesterday in Mirabel, Que.

Lincicome, who earned $331,492, said she kept herself calm by singing country songs to herself as she parred the final six holes to stay ahead of Lewis and hold off Wie, the winner last year in Winnipeg. Wie sank long putts at the 15th and 17th to make it close with an even-par 72.

Lewis had put up the low score of the day — a 67 on a day in which only 16 of 78 were under par — more than an hour earlier.

"I was very patient, singing a lot of songs, very chatty," said Lincicome, who said singing to herself is part of her sports psychology program to stay focused. "The weather was not great, but I was still having fun."

The victory was nearly as sweet for her caddy, former LPGA regular A.J. Eathorne of Penticton, B.C., whose own playing career has been on hold since 2009.

Lincicome pulled her tee shot on 18 into a tent and had to take a drop, but managed to get the ball up near the green, chip it close and make the winning putt. She also had fine saves on the eighth and ninth.

"I'm growing as a golfer, I guess," said Lincicome. "If this would have happened a couple of years ago, I'm not sure how I would have handled it."

Playing in the last group, Wie needed birdie on 18 to force a playoff, but missed the green and left her chip shot wide and short. She made the putt to keep a share of second place and win $174,812.

Fears that the final round would be washed out by remnants of Tropical Storm Irene did not pan out. Rain and nasty winds hit the lead groups midway through their rounds, but it did not force a stoppage of play. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Federer says he's still hungry

U.S. Open is Swiss star's last chance to keep alive his eight-year streak of winning at least one Grand Slam

First came the end of Roger Federer's remarkable run of reaching a record 10 consecutive Grand Slam finals.

Then he failed to make it to a major semifinal after a record 23 in a row.

The U.S. Open marks Federer's last chance to prevent the close of another streak: In each season from 2003-10, he won at least one Grand Slam title — and sometimes as many as three. He's 0-for-2011 heading into the year's last major tournament, where play is scheduled to begin this morning, after what the U.S. Tennis Association said was "minimal damage" to the site over the weekend from Tropical Storm Irene.

This U.S. Open also is Federer's first major tournament since he turned 30 on Aug. 8. That age tends to represent a barrier to success in tennis: Of the past 100 Grand Slam titles, only five were won by a man past his 30th birthday. The last to do it was Andre Agassi at the 2003 Australian Open.

Federer, though, said that his age hasn't affected his expectations.

"Hasn't changed anything. I'm still as professional. I'm still as hungry. Everything's still completely normal," he explained.

For his career, Federer is 223-33 in Grand Slam matches, an .871 winning percentage. He can tie Agassi for the second-most victories at majors — Jimmy Connors retired with 233 — by beating 54th-ranked Santiago Giraldo of Colombia (who, for the record, is 2-10 in Grand Slam play) today.

They're slated to play their first-round match in Arthur Ashe Stadium at night, after seven-time major champion Venus Williams meets Vesna Dolonts of Russia.

Other matches on the Day 1 schedule include 2006 U.S. Open champion Maria Sharapova against Heather Watson of Britain; reigning Wimbledon champion Petra Kvitova against Alexandra Dulgheru of Romania; 2010 U.S. Open runner-up Vera Zvonareva against Stephanie Foretz Gacon of France; 19-year-old American Ryan Harrison against No. 27-seeded Marin Cilic of Croatia; and No. 8 Mardy Fish against Tobias Kamke of Germany.
